

Transportation insurance guarantees that accidents will not entail serious material losses for the owner. Transportation of cargo implies some risks regardless of the status and work experience of the shipping company. Insurance allows minimize and indemnify losses in case of any unforeseen situation. The force majeure situation could happen during the transportation and entail undesirable consequences:

- loss of cargo,
- partial or full damage of cargo,
- shortage of cargo,
- delay in cargo delivery, slower delivery.

The CCM helps customer to choose optimal kind and type of insurance. Depending on the specificity of cargo and type of transportation, there are several variants of insurance with an optimal insurance package:

- One-time (for one-time transportation of concrete cargo).
- General agreement (insurance contract concluded for a specific period of time (e.g. for one year, if there are regular shipments))